LAST WEEKS ITEMS

The Following Items Were Unavoidably Crowded Out Last Week.

Mrs. M. E. Gettings left for Kentucky Tuesday.

Arch Oliver, of Frances' vicinity, was here Tuesday.

Mrs. Emily S. Vaughn returned from a three weeks visit in Kansas, Tuesday.

R. E. Moore and wife, of Sheridan, were the guests of his father, R.
D. Moore Monday.

W. L. Venner and D. A. Moore attended the funeral of Parret Hinman at Evansville Tuesday.

Greaser Biford is now a dude shoeshiner of the first class. He even parts his hair in the middle.

G. M. Yancey, Henry Bennett, W.
L. Bennett, all of Dyersburg, were here attending circuit court Tuesday.

Mrs. Jas. M. Freeman and daughter, Miss Morrell, attended the funeral of Parret Hinman at Evansville, Ind., Tuesday.

Albert McNeely, wife and baby who visited in the city this week, left on the afternoon train for their home in Princeton.

Mrs. Thos. Griffith who has been on a visit to her brother Rufus Witherspoon in Kansas, returned home Monday morning.

Sam Elgin, of Louisville, who has been the guest of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Virgil Elgin, left Tuesday night for his home.

Mrs. Mary Black and son Richard Sharp, were in the city Tuesday.
Mrs. Black was enroute to visit her niece Mrs. Thos. M. Butler at Frederick.

Mrs. Ida Hall who has been staying at Chas. Loyd's millinery emporium at Evansville, has returned home to remain for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

M. and Mrs. Gus Sammerville were in the city Wednesday. They recently entertained a party of bird hunters from Lexington at their hospital home at Marion, Ky.

Mrs. E. A. Lee of Kirksville, Ind., arrived Tuesday at noon to visit her brother J. E. Lee on Walker street. This is her first visit to Marion and the first time her brother has seen her in five years.

J. R. Lee, son of Vaughn of the Greek Creek road, was here Tuesday to meet their mother who was enroute home from a visit to her daughter Mrs. Rufus Witherspoon at Evansville, Ky.

J. R. Lee and his family have been afflicted more than their share recently. He and his good wife have been sick with tonsillitis, and two of his children have had scarlet fever, all are now on the road to recovery, and Mr. Frazier feels thankful that one member of his family born Byron, escaped being sick.

Mrs. J. A. Farmer who is visiting her son Luther in Owensboro, had the misfortune to fall on the church steps breaking several small bones and ligaments in her right foot.
She is confined to her bed as a result of the injury which is quite painful.

Ask Your Own Doctor

If he tells you to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for your severe cough or bronchial trouble, then take it. If he has anything better, then take that.
But we know what he will say;
for doctors have used this cough medicine over 60 years.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for croup, bad coughs and influenza. It has done me great good, and I believe it is the best cough medicine in the world for all croup and lung troubles." J. C. STUART frequently results from neglect of clogged bowels and torpid liver, until constipation becomes chronic. This condition is unknown to those who use Dr. King's New Life Pills, the best and gentlest regulators of Stomach and Bowels. Guaranteed by Woods & Orme, Druggists. Price 25c.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

Messrs John L. Gray and W. F.
Gray came up Monday. Mrs.
John L. Gray accompanied Mr.
Gray here and will remain till the last of the week. Mr. W. F. Gray will be here several days before returning to Frankfort. They are the guests at the Clark House.—Livingston Banner.

Mr. J. W. Harris, of Tolu, Ky., accompanied by D. A. Mantz and another gentleman, went to Grafton, Ill., Sunday to receive a new boat, built for Mr. Harris, who proposes to run it as a daily packet between Tolu and Paducah. The craft is 50 feet in length by 9 foot beam, and is guaranteed to make ten miles an hour.—Herald Enterprise.

Mr. William Gray and brother John, were here yesterday en route to Livingston county on a hunt.
The former is Assistant Secretary of the State at Frankfort, and the latter, Commonwealth Attorney for the Princeton judicial district. They spent several hours here with their sister, Mrs. John K. Hendrick.— Paducah Register, Nov. 18th.

Mr. Blackman Lee Stevens, of Smithfield, N. C., and Miss Della Kaye, of Marion, Ky., were quietly married in Richmond, Va., on Monday afternoon, November 26th, 1906.
Rev. R. M. Marcy, of the M. E. church, officiating.

The bride was handsomely groomed in a brown tulle made suit with flat and gloves to match. The groom wore the conventional black.

A automobile party for seeing the beauties of the "capital city" of the Confederacy was tendered the wedding party after the ceremony.

After an extended western trip
Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will be at home to their friends at Smithfield, N. C. where Mr. Stevens is a successful business man.

The bride is an accomplished young woman and has won the love and confidence of all who know her.—Richmond, (Va.) Exchange.

Mrs. Ed Moore had the misfortune to get her hand and arm badly burned last Friday morning by hot grease.
For several hours the pain was very intense. She is still suffering more or less from the effects of the burn.
—Gleams Graphic.

Judge Nunn, of Frankfort, is in Madisonville and will remain here until after Thanksgiving. The Judge has so many friends in this town and county that he feels it incumbent on him to make them occasional visits.

the house." Woods & Orme.

For Thin Babies

Fat is of great account to a baby; that is why babies are fat. If your baby is scrawny, Scott's Emulsion is what he wants. The healthy baby stores as fat what it does not need immediately for bone and muscle. Fat babies are happy; they do not cry; they are rich;
their fat is laid up for time of need. They are happy because they are comfortable. The fat surrounds their little nerves and cushions them. When they are scrawny those nerves are hurt at every ungentle touch. They delight in Scott's Emulsion. It is as sweet as wholesome to them.

The Christmas Joy of the Lonely Heart.

While the earth abides there will always be lonely hearts whose loneliness is increased by the general good fellowship of the season. Sar-row has a way of lifting the latch and coming, an unbidden guest, at some time or other, into every life.
One day all is brightness, the next the world is dark. Among those who are keeping Christmas this year there are some who have to rise and have the personal grief in their ante-rooms not to count the number of others. How may they best succeed? By the old-fashioned way that leads sorrow-foot over rough roads and shows that every turn a shrine where one may stop and worship. The shrine is not visible to all travelers from some it is hidden, but those who stop there to pray behold within it a cross, and they wreath the cross with flowers.
They are lonely themselves, to drop the metaphor, but they do not inflict their sadness on their friends. They invite children to visit them, they carry comfort and cheer to the aged and the infirm. Although their own lives seem shorn of blessing they take pains to be blessed in their ministry.—Margaret E. Sangster in Women's Home Companion for December.

PROGRAM.

FOR THE

MUSICALE

To be Given at the Marion High School Auditorium
Monday Evening, December 10.

Miss Ida Cole Soprano
Miss Ada Zellar Pianist
Miss Nina Dale Park Cellist

1. Sonata, cello and piano Edward Grieg
2. Valse - Angel's Serenade, with cello obligato Braga
3. Piano a. Prelude b. Valse Romantique Chopin
4. Cello a. Calm as the Night b. Elegie c. Shereza Messiaen
5. Violin a. Violets b. Morning Glory Song c. The Pine d. Forget me Not e. The Seed's Song Woodman
6. Piano a. Romance, F sharp b. Polish Song Schumann
7. Cello Cantata Cui
8. Vocal a. Sylvia b. Springtime, with cello obligato Schubert

The Monday evening, December 10, Marion will be most fortunate in having brought to her talent that is recognized by critics to be most artistic. The program will appeal to all old and young, even those who are not music lovers and claim they do not understand music for.

"There is in souls a sympathy with sounds."

And as the mind is pitched, the ear is pleased.

With melting air or martial, brisk or grave.

Sounds heard in unison with what we hear.

It hatched within us, and the heart replies.

There is nothing on the program heavy and fit only for the musical artist, but is a carefully selected lot of gems and birds all who are pure in tone, for such music washes away from the soul the dust of every-day life.

The man that hath no music in him, sell

Not his soul moved with concord of sweet sounds.

Let it for treason, stratagem, and spoils.

The motions of his spirit are dull as night.

And his affections dark as Erebus.

Let no such man be trusted.

This is the way Shakespeare in his "Merchant of Venice" stamps a man without appreciation for music.

The talent is brought from Cincinnati and each one is an artist, bearing wide reputation. The concert is given under the auspices of Dr. F. S. Smith and Miss Lillie Cook for the benefit of sixth grade of the Marion graded school.

Lifeorama of Destruction of San Francisco

Edwin Powell's Lifeorama will be shown at the Opera House three nights commencing Dec. 6th. The outpouring is reported all in life motion. The falling of the sky scrapers will be made realistic by noise effects. A ton of rock and iron will be used for this purpose. The only scenes, the crumbling walls, the excited populace fleeing from the city, a top through Golden Gate park and all these terrible scenes, which by earthquake will be shown in scenes in moving pictures as they take place. This part of the show runs twenty five minutes.

A Kentucky Girl at Hymen's Alter.

Married at the Christian parsonage, North Yakima, Nov. 5, 1906, Mr. Edward Taylor, of Tappanish, and Miss Myrtle E. Jacobs of Zillah, Rev. Morton officiating.

Thus joined together for wedlock, two of the most popular young people of this section of the Yakima valley. The groom is well and favorably known in Tappanish and vicinity. He is of good character, industrious and is of good character. His young body is of superior grade.

The Review adds to the wish of all friends - Long life and happiness to Mr. and Mrs. Taylor. Tappanish Review.

The Next Attraction

Edwin "Cyclone" Southern, the Immortal "Florida Cracker," the "Scribbled Philosopher" and "Sage of Bradford," will appear at the School Auditorium Tuesday evening, Dec. 11th, 1906, in his masterpiece, "If I were the Devil." Query: What would you do if you were the Devil? Dr. Southern has been before the public continuously for over thirty years, appearing in every civilized country and some countries that were not civilized. His lectures have been internationally celebrated for their realism, striking truths and grim humor. They have been extensively copied by others who fail to follow in his wake. He is favored with a personal magnetism and delightful charm possessed by few other lecturers on the platform.

Edwin "Cyclone" Southern stands alone, pre-eminently, in his marvelous breadth of survey, matchless and incomparable oratory, grim, cynical and Mephistophelean humor, and soul stirring powers of description.

Dr. Southern asks the question, in speaking of Devils: "What would you do if you were the Devil, and (in your opinion) what is the 'Boss' Devil?"

Dr. Southern devotes only a few weeks out of each year to the lecture platform and owing to this fact Marion is indeed fortunate to secure him even for one lecture, and those who are fortunate enough to hear his masterpiece will receive a treat such as they never before heard. Don't forget the place and date - the School Auditorium, Tuesday evening, Dec. 11th, 1906.

Makes the Liver Lively.

One laxative, Dr. Stryker gives permanent relief in cases of habitual constipation. It stimulates the liver and restores the natural movement of the bowels without creating those organs like purgative cathartics. Does not nauseate or irritate and is a most pleasant remedy. Remember the name and address - Dr. Stryker, 111 West 4th Street.

CHAPEL HILL.

Silas McMurry and wife, of Rip-ton, were guests of Charles Clement's family Saturday and Sunday.

John Asbridge and wife, of Jackson school house vicinity, were the guests of W. H. Bigham and daughter Sunday, and Sunday night.

About half of the tobacco in this vicinity, has been stripped, and some delivered and all are very well pleased with their average to the acre.

Corn in this community is turning out well, some are through gathering.

Some of our boys have killed hogs in this precinct, and they have already begun to look greasy about the face.

Wheat is looking well in this part of the vineyard, but a very small crop has been sown.

Already some tobaccoheads have been burnt. Look out boys who are you going to sell to next time.

About half of the tobacco crop has been brought up in this country at a good price.

Will Ward and family will move to Evansville next year.

LEVIAS

A hog killing time.

We are glad to report our sick as improving, viz. Dr. Davidson, Masie Threlkeld and Curtis Allison.

Mrs. Sarah Hayden, of Salem, is visiting relatives here this week.

Dr. Pope, of Louisville, was here last week looking after his mining interests.

Mrs. Pennie Hollowell and Ross Fox, of Shady Grove, visited their brother, Dr. Fox Saturday and Sunday, returning home Monday.

The entertainment by the school Wednesday night was quite a credit to the teacher and school, but the order was a shame and disgrace to the community. Even professing ladies were disorderly. Better not see the stage as to be seen out of place. We are glad to say however they were not "girls" and the house was too much crowded for accommodations.

A. LaRue and family spent Thanksgiving with relatives in Salem.

Mrs. Abba Welford and children, of Salem visited relatives here Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Addie Boyd, of Salem, greeted friends here Thanksgiving en route to the Teachers' Association at Princeton.

Abraham Henry and wife, of Marion, attended the entertainment Wednesday evening.

ARTIFICIAL WARMTH.

It is the an Inherited Habit and a Sign of Luxury.

With the big, restless, open world outside of this heated house, however, the matter of keeping warm is ever present, troublesome and alive, throughout half of each passing year.

As a matter of fact, the world of humanity dwelling in stoveland never has been in all the ages really and comfortably warm in winter. It is largely our own fault. Mankind is the only animal which employs fire in the effort to survive the cold of the winters. The hardy lower animals do not need it, however much their luxuriously covered representatives, the dog and the cat, may enjoy it when they have a chance.

Ancient man only got himself rid of his prevalent coat of hair and his sufficient latent heat when he began to loaf around the family cooking stove and absorb the intoxicating comfort of artificial warmth. This faraway ancestor is responsible for the fact that the present day human being, outside of the belt aforesaid, is obliged to keep close to a thermometer register at nearly or quite 70 degrees F. from October to May, besides which he must needs wear extra clothing. This also is an inherited habit.

A traveler west once asked a half naked Indian in midwinter how he managed to stand the weather. The Indian replied: "Your face no got a coat. It no cold. Indian face all over." -National Magazine.

VIRTUE IN COPPER.

The Metal is a Death Dealer to All Disease Germs.

"Copper is a marvelous preventive of disease. If we returned to the old copper drinking vessels of our forefathers, typhoid epidemic would disappear."

The speaker, a filtration expert, took a copper cent from his pocket.

"Examine this cent under the microscope," he said, "and you will find it altogether free from disease germs. Examine gold and silver coins, and you will find them one wriggling and contorting germ mass. Yet copper coins pass through dirtier hands than gold and silver ones. You'd think they ought to be alive with micro-organisms. But no. Copper kills germs. Diphtheria and cholera cultures smeared on a copper cent die in less than two hours."

"They have many cholera epidemics in China, but certain towns are always immune. These towns keep their drinking water in great copper vessels. Travelers have tried to buy these vessels, for they are beautiful, but the villagers will not sell them. They have a superstition that their health and welfare depend on their retention. I wish all superstitions were as true and salutary as that." - Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Joke Was on the Students.

When Dr. Nathan Lord was president of Dartmouth college he used to drive about in a dilapidated, old fashioned contrivance. The students became tired of seeing the concern and, though Dr. Lord knew of this, he clung to the old calash. One night a group of the young men hauled the thing out of the shed where it was kept, took it several miles down the road toward Lebanon and hid it in a spot where it was concealed by dense foliage. They were just about to depart, well satisfied with the threesome job, when the curtain which completely enveloped the front of the calash was suddenly pushed aside and the well known face of President Lord appeared. "Now, gentlemen," he said, "you may draw me back again."

Homes Under the Ground.
In the salt district in Cheshire, England, the brine has been pumped so continuously out of the earth that the land has settled very considerably. The houses naturally sink with the earth, and in some of the streets in Northwich only the roofs are visible. The houses are inhabited, although the rooms are underground. In a great many cases additional stories have been added, so that by living in the upper rooms the residents may have some light and air. The roads, ways sink, too, but are kept up to the proper level by the government.

He Laid.
"Don't waste your time in clipping off the branches," said the woodman to his son, "but lay your ax at the root of the tree." And the young man went out and laid his ax at the foot of the tree, like a good and dutiful boy, and then he went fishing. Truly there is nothing so beautiful as filial obedience. -Strand Magazine.

One View of It.
"But if she makes all her own dresses I should think she'd be a good wife for you. It shows she's industrious and sensible."

"Not for me, thank you. It simply shows how poor her father must be." -Philadelphia Ledger.

His It.
"You can't guess what sister said about you just before you came in, Mr. Higheollar," said little Johnnie.

"I haven't an idea in the world, Johnnie."

"That's it. You guessed it the very first time."

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Uncontented Deer

A deer once lived in a forest with his lot. He lived on a high plateau, where there were cool streams which fell in bubbling cascades at the edge of the plateau to the valley below.

"That is a beautiful valley," declared the deer one day as he stood and looked at the pretty landscape spread out before him, but many hundred feet below. "How I should like to live there, and yet it is impossible for me to climb down the steep sides of this immense precipice. Just now I saw a little sparrow who had been twittering in a bush at my side spread his wings and swiftly fly down, down, down, to the meadow on the bank of the valley stream. Why should not I fly?"

HE STOOD AND LOOKED AT THE PRETTY LANDSCAPE.

And the foolish deer thought so long on this subject that he actually became possessed of the idea that he could fly.

"Here I go," he cried at last; "here I go to the velvet meadows and the cool shade of yonder valley!"

Then he plunged forward into the air.

Well, there isn't anything more to tell about the deer, but it may be said that on that selfsame day the jackals of that beautiful valley had a feast of boneless venison such as they had never enjoyed before. -Atlanta Constitution.

THE KING OF BEASTS' MISTAKE

"I've just been told," said the lion to his wife, "that I'm the king of beasts."

"And so you are," replied his wife. "The only pity is that you do not conduct yourself as a king should."

"What shall I do?" asked the lonely lion.

"Well, in the first place, you should dress like a king," answered his wife.

Thereupon the lion went out and procured to get what he thought would be the proper clothes for a king.

HE WENT OUT TO SHOW HIMSELF OFF.

He dressed himself up in the best he could get and then went out to show himself off among the animals.

"Hello, Leo!" cried Mr. Hippo. "What does this mean?"

"Why, I'm the king of beasts, and these are my royal garments," answered the lion, looking proudly down at his clothes.

Mr. Hippo leaned back and laughed loud and long.

"The king of beasts, indeed," exclaimed he. "Well, you may have been before you went crazy, but now that you have dressed yourself up in those things you're no more than a king's fool. You are neither beast nor man. My friend, you've made a mistake."

So the lion went home and thought it all over and finally beat his wife for giving him such bad advice. -St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Owing to lack of space, part of the President's message will be left out till next week.

Narrowness of mind causes selfishness. We do not believe what is beyond that which we see.

Our dignity consists in thought, therefore let us contrive to think well, for that is the principle of morals.

"Who is the great man?" He who is strongest in patience. He who patiently endures injury and maintains a blameless life, he is a man indeed.

The first duty we should teach ourselves is to do nothing but what is every duty that devolves on us. Sometimes these seem crosses and are many times a trial, but duty will soon become a pleasure in performance.

It takes much labor and money to print a paper and it takes money to pay for the things. When we write as little of substance that always pay for the paper is making both ends meet.

The way of the world is uncertain but an office is supported by a certain number of people who will support it. An editor usually is paid $5.00 a week when someone was an editor printed free gratis and usually asked when he does not get it and when a pay job is done it is taken to a job printer that is independent of the paper.

I like to favor our subscribers and will do so if they will favor us with their work that we can realize money from.

We said before it takes funds to a bright, new and up-to-date paper like ours. We hope for our few remarks that we will catch the drift of our words and stop our mouths. $ $ $ $.

A man who flanders secretly his neighbor should be shunned. He is like a cap of poison with cream on the surface, in any community and sooner or later is discarded by all true men.

The Danvers Cannery has closed this season of 1906, by shipping last Thursday the remainder of its output which during the season, has amounted to 2000 cases of two can cans each, making almost 192,000 cans, and 175 barrels of pulp for catsup and 5000 gallons of chili sauce. It is quite gratifying to the manager to know that only one can out of 200 put up failed to keep, whereas the first year 12 out of each 200 spoiled, which proves that the business has been well managed and is perfected. The cannery employed about sixty people during the season, and was under the management of J. A. Graves, this year, who represented the Union J. T. Park Co. of Greenwood, Ind.

To the Public

Having bought Mr. Paris' interest in the planing mill and the interest in all accounts due, I want to thank my friends for their liberal patronage to us, and to so many for standing by us and giving us their support and confidence. While I realize that none of us are infallible, I want to say I have made a special effort to please the trade and we extend our most sincere thanks for their indulgence. We further want to say that any business we may have of yours in the future will be looked after with the greatest of care and appreciation.

Now a word to those knowing those who are indebted to the firm. We would like to emphasize the fact that we will need every cent due us, and I may be able to settle with Mr. Paris for his interest according to promise. After thanking you I beg to remain, As ever yours, J. N. BROWN

RETIREES FROM PLANING MILL.

Mr. O. H. Paris has sold his interest in the planing mill to J. N. Brown, his partner. The business will be continued as usual. Mr. Paris is not settled as to what he will engage in but will not remain idle long.

For all the Christmas dainties, go to Jas. L. Rankin & Co. Fresh candies, nuts, figs, dates, raisins, citron, evaporated peaches, apricots and prunes. And in fact every thing good to eat.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

C. S. Nunn left Wednesday, at noon for Denver, Colo., to spend the holidays with his wife who has been there several months for the benefit of her health.

John and Ellen Asbridge, of Jackson neighborhood, were the guests of Harrison Bigham and daughter Sunday night, to the Chapel Hill neighborhood.

The first quarterly meeting of the Methodist church will be held Dec. 8 and 10 by Rev. Dr. Lewis, preaching morning and evening, every one especially invited to hear Dr. Lewis.

FOR SALE—175 acres of land lying near Pribble, Ky., will divide to suit purchaser, good improvements low price, easy terms. Write at once to Collins, Waller, Morganfield, Ky.

"Not here thy life nor fate, but what thou livest live well, how long or short, permit to heaven." Your teeth are what you live with. Dr. F. S. Stowell, Dentist, near Marion Bank.

Geo. H. Crider and his estimable family have gone to Canyon City, Texas. They left Tuesday. Mr. Crider and each one of his family will be missed very much here, and we hope they will have health and prosperity.

Mrs. T. J. Nunn left for Frankfort Sunday after spending Thanksgiving with her children here. Judah Nunn who visited last week at Madisonville, has also returned home, joining Mrs. Nunn at Nortonville.

To my friends and the public in general, having sold my interest in the planing mill to my partner J. N. Brown, I desire to thank every one who has extended us their patronage and to request them to continue same with my successor, O. H. Paris, Marion, Ky., Dec. 1st, 1906.

Boys are looking in from all parts of the county where some boys took place about damaged one in the home. It is a very rare occurrence that our boys over their heads, during this time of the year, and consequently many of our river bottom farmers were not prepared for this unexpected loss.

Mrs. Phil Delev has immortalized even the rocks of old Kentucky. She recently returned to the blue grass state from Arkansas where the family lived for a few months. Someone asked her if she was glad to get back to Marion, she said yes, undoubtedly, and by way of emphasis added that the rocks in old Kentucky were in her more beautiful than flowers in any other state. In fact she said every rock in Marion looked to her like a rose bush and in full bloom at that.

A move is on foot to have an art light placed at the I. C. depot to be used during arrival and departures of all night trains. This would make the town look up much brighter to strangers and would be worth its cost to the city. A city lights are one of its best advertisements.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. T. Allen of Princeton were the guests of Hugh Hurley and wife on south main street Sunday. They returned home on the evening train accompanied by their little daughters, Mary Lou and Amanda, who had been the guests of their sister Mrs. Hurley for several days.

The music and singing at the Presbyterian church last Saturday morning was exceptionally good. The anthem, "Love of Jesus Christ," the choir was rich and sweet. The "Dont, Some Time Some Day" by Mrs. J. W. Wilson and Miss Katie Gray was beautiful, and was well rendered a good musical program always and much interest to the service.

Dr. C. K. Crawford, of Louisville, a professor in the Louisville Theological Seminary, preached at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. He arrived Tuesday and was the guest of Rev. Andrew and wife at the mansion, West Park street. Dr. Crawford assisted at the marriage of Rev. and Mrs. Andrew.

A party of mining capitalists interested in the Albany Mining Co., and other properties near here were in the city Monday. The members of party were Messrs. J. Walter Baird and J. M. Mulenbacher of Munich, Ind., L. M. Weller and P. Whitsett, of Columbus, Ohio. They went by carriage to the different properties in which they are interested and spent several days in the field.

A Current Life and its Importance, was the subject of Rev. John's sermon at the Methodist church Sunday night. It was a pointed reference to the young men, a large number of whom took advantage of the opportunity of hearing the distinguished minister, and all who were so fortunate as to hear it were well paid for their attendance.

Criminal Prosecutions.

It is based on the fact that, if the discrimination in favor of the railroad company was made with an intent to discriminate against their competitors, the railroad company would be liable. It would be that their competitors would be driven out of business. This crime is one which is not based on a deliberate and premeditated intent, but is based on the fact that between the date of Palmer's letter requesting the reduced rate and the answer given by the railroad company desiring to grant it, and the time the railroad forwarded this business was carried on and these claims for rebates submitted monthly. It is a crime in the payment of them drawn month after month, and is a violation of the law. In my opinion, it is of an essential nature. It is a very much more serious crime than the ordinary common vulgar crimes which come before criminal courts constantly for punishment and which arise from sudden impulse. This crime was committed in this case was committed by men of education and of large business experience. These business standing in the community would be the leaders of the community. It has been expected to set an example of obedience to law, upon the main principle, which alone in this country (the security) is the basis of the law. It was committed on behalf of a great railroad corporation, which, like other railroad corporations, has received gratuitously from the State large valuable privileges for the public's convenience and its own, which performs quasi public duties, and which is charged with the highest obligation in the protection of its business to treat the citizens of this country alike, and not to carry on a system of discrimination between different classes or different classes of citizens. This crime in its nature is one usually done with secrecy, and it is one which is usually done to obtain. The interstate commerce act was passed in 1887, nearly 20 years ago. Ever since that time complaints of the treatment of the citizens of this country, common, urgent, insistent, and altho the congress has repeatedly asked legislation to be passed to put a stop to this evil, the difficulty is obtaining evidence upon which to bring prosecution in these cases is so great that this is the first time that this crime has been brought to court, and, as I am informed this case and one recently brought in Philadelphia are the only cases that have ever been brought to court. It is just a crime of this kind, in fact, but few cases of this kind have ever been brought to this country, east or west. Now, under these circumstances, it is a crime in which the proof is so clear and the facts are so flagrant, it is to the duty of the court to fix a penalty which will be a deterrent to the future, and with the gravity of the offense. As between the two defendants, it is my opinion, the principal liability should be placed upon the defendant who is the one who in this case is primarily acted with an advantage to himself and without any advantage to the public. It is my opinion that the first liability is in accordance with what he has tried to be the policy the wrong of his negligence.

In that the defendant's counsel in this case is that the defendant's lawyer, for each of the six defenses upon which he has been convicted, be fined the sum of $100,000, and that the defendant, The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company, be fined the sum of $100,000, it has been proposed to find the sum of $100,000 being six times multiplied in the aggregate to the sum of $600,000, and that that effect will be entered in this case.

Exonerate the Technicalities.

In connection with this matter, I would like to call attention to the very unsatisfactory state of affairs in the Federal courts in this last from the habit of setting aside the judgments of inferior courts on technicalities absolutely unnecessary and out of line of the case, and where there is no attempt to show that there has been any failure of substantial justice. I would like to suggest that the proper remedy is to the effect that:

No judgment may be set aside or new trial granted, if the error is of a technical nature, if the ground of motion for judgment of the proper admission or rejection of evidence as far as it may be made, and if the error is of a technical nature, in the opinion of the court to which the application is made, after a consideration of the evidence, that the error complained of has resulted in a miscarriage of justice.

Injunctions.

On the subject of injunctions, I suggested the other making a matter-of-fact course granting preliminary injunction to be the ordinary and judicial disposition of such cases, and that there have already been flagrant wrongs committed by such injunctions in connection with labor disputes even with such cases as the Chicago. I think much less often than in Wisconsin. Injunctions have been issued in those cases where the strikers are entirely out of touch with the power of injunction; and in such cases the use of injunction in injunctive process tends to threaten its very existence, for if the American people are to be convinced that this process is habitually used to oppress the masses affecting labor or in matters of unimportant corporations, it will be well-nigh impossible.

[illegible]

For the judges have ever been foremost in the struggle for the maintenance of the law. This has been true since the days of the great English Lord Chancellor, who said: "Let all people be ruled by the law, let all people be judged upon that so when I have given it in any cause others may be at ease." It was the same in the history of the case were set forth with singular clearness and good temper by Judge W. J. Hughes in a United States circuit court, it was said:

"The opportunity freely and publicly to criticize judicial action is of vastly more value to the public than the immunity of courts and judges from unjust aspersions and attack. Nothing is more to remind judges careful in their decisions of the knowledge of sound legal principles that every act of theirs is to be subjected to the intelligent scrutiny and candid criticism of the public. Such criticism is beneficial in proportion as it is fair, dispassionate, discriminating as to the merits of the case and the legal principles. The comments made by learned text writers and by the acute analyses of the various law reviews upon judicial decisions are of the most useful. Such critics constitute more or less impartial tribunals of professional opinion. It is the duty of the courts to stand or fall on its merits, and thus exert a strong influence to secure conformity of decision. But non-professional criticism is of less value, without its uses, even if accompanied, as it often is, by a direct attack upon the character of the judges or of the occupants of the bench, for if the law be the essence of common sense, the protest of many average men may evidence a more profound knowledge of the law based on the nicest legal reasoning and profoundest learning. The two important elements of moral character in a judge are an earnest desire to reach a conclusion and courage to enforce it. Insofar as fear of public comment does not impair the first, it heightens the second, spurs him on to search his conscience and to reach the result which approves itself to his innate heart. Such comment is a stimulus to the highest quality of men whether they are judges for life or for a shorter term, who do not prefer to be judged by the public, and who cannot be reached and made to pause and deliberate by hostile public criticism. In the case of judges having a life tenure the right freely to comment on their decisions of greater importance because of the practical and available instrument in the judge's hands to keep such judges alive to the reason-of the demands of justice, they serve to destroy the proper influence of judicial decisions in creating unbiased prejudices against the courts, justices and reducing the impact against the charges and answered 'Courts must ultimately rest their defense upon the inherent strength of the opinions they deliver and must trust to the calm and deliberate judgment of all the people as their best vindication'.

Second Judgment of the People.

There is one consideration which should be taken into account by the people who carry a sound proposition to an election in objecting to any criticism of a judge's decision. The instinct of the people to temper criticism against the justice is a commendable quality in this position. They will not subscribe to the doctrine that any public servant is to be above criticism. If the best criticism is to be the best, the people must reserve their judgment in such matters, and above all those belonging to the great and honorable profession of the bar, and not allow the criticism to take their life, take the position that there shall be no criticism of a judge under any circumstances, their view will not be accurate. The people must be a whole, and in such event the people will turn to, and tend to accept as justifiable, the intemperate and improper criticism against the judiciary. It is a misfortune to leave to such criticism a function, right in itself, which they are certain to abuse. Just and temperate criticism is a necessary safeguard against the acceptance by the people as a whole of that intemperate antagonism towards the judiciary which must be the result of the right of criticism by man and which, if it become widespread among the people at large, would constitute a direct menace to the republic.

THE NEGRO PROBLEM.
President Says Mob Law is a Menace to the Country.

In connection with the delays of the law, I call your attention and the attention of the nation to the prevalence of crime among the lynchings and mob violence that springs up, now in one part of our country, now in another. Each section, each State, each district, each county, each town or section can with wisdom spend its time feeling at the tails of another section, and thus avoid trying to deal with its own shortcomings. To deal with the crime of corruption it is necessary to have an awakened public opinion. The law, as it is, and whatever legislation will add speed and certainty in the execution of the law, is necessary. A great many white men are lynched, but the crime is peculiarly frequent in the case of negroes. The cause of lynching is the population, especially by black men, of the hideous crime of rape the most heinous of all crimes. Mob violence is even worse than murder. Mobs frequently avenge the commission of this crime by themselves, and thus, avenging, in a brutal fashion a brutal deed, and reducing Lawlessness grows by what it feeds upon, and when mobs began to lynch for rape the same mobs began to lynch for many other kinds of crimes, so that two-thirds of the lynchings are not for rape at all. While a considerable proportion of the individuals lynched are innocent of all crime, Gov. Chandler, of Georgia, stated in one occasion that a large majority may be guilty. I have, within the last month, saved the lives of half a dozen innocent negroes who were pursued by mobs and lynched. I have tried in a court of law in which they were acquitted. As Bishop Taylor, of Mississippi, has finely said: "The mob is the enemy of civilization, the man who distinguishes a high civilization is surrendered. The mob which lynches a negro charged with rape will in a flash of an eye lynch a white man suspected of crime. Every Christian pa-lot in America needs to lift up his voice in loud and formal protest against the law which is now protecting the integrity of this republic." Gov. Jelks, of Alabama, has recently spoken in no fewer words. "The thing is not a question for what is an excusable anywhere—it is a denial of orderly government, but the thing is infinitely more horrible, and yet innocent people are likely to die when the law is enforced." The lesson is this: No good citizen can afford to countenance a defiance of the statutes, no matter what the provocation. He must stand by the law, and stand. It is my observation, more usually suffer than the guilty. The white man is not to be blamed for the colored race on the ground that even the better elements lend no assistance in their own color. The criminals of their own color expect the better people must learn not to harbor their criminals, but to assist the authorities in the larger crime, and it provokes such atrocious offenses as the one at Birmingham, Ala., and it is the law on until there is an understanding on the part of both to make common cause in the law-abiding criminal of any color."

Dignity of Race Hatred.

Moreover, where any crime committed by a member of one race against a member of another race is avenged, the individual who is punished is not the individual who is attacked, the result is to exonerate to the highest degree race feeling. In dealing with black men as with white men, it is the same rule that must be applied in dealing with rich men and poor men. It is not the man, but whatever his color, his creed or his social position, with even-handed justice. The man who treats other white people owe it quite as much to themselves as to the colored race to treat well the colored man who shows by his conduct that he is a man of merit; for it is surely the highest wisdom to encourage in the colored race the individuals who are honest, industrious and in addition, who therefore make good and safe neighbors and citizens. Reward or punish the individual on his merits. Evil will surely come in the end to both races if we substitute for this just rule the habit of treating the colored man as a race. There is no question of "social equality" or "negro domination" or "white supremacy." It is relentlessly punishing bad men, and encouraging to the good man the right to his life, his liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. It is the rule of the heart, head and hand enable him to achieve it.

Every colored man should realize that the enemy of his race is the negro criminal, and about the negro criminals who commits the dreadful crime of rape; and it should be felt that the crime is against the whole country, and against the colored race in particular; for the colored man to fail to help the officers of the law in their efforts to suppress this possible carelessness and zeal every such infamous offender. Moreover, the colored man who is guilty of rape should always be punished with death, as is the case with murder; assault with intent to commit rape should be made a capital offense, and the law should be made of the court; and provision should be made by which the punishment may follow immediately upon the heels of the offense. The law should be so conducted that the victim need not be wantonly shamed while giving testimony, and the law should be so made that publicity shall be given to the details.

The members of the white race on the other hand should understand that the colored man is not the enemy, but that such a loosening of the bands of civilization; that the spirit of lynching should be driven into permanent banishment from the community all for good and for creatures who dwell therein. No man can take part in the torture of a human being, and the moral nature of the moral nature permanently lowered. Every lynching means just so much moral deterioration in all the children of the community, and how much more therefore just so much additional trouble for the next generation.

Let justice be both sure and swift, but let it be justice under the law, and not the wild and crooked sawney of a mob.

Need for Negro Education.

There is another matter which has a direct bearing upon this matter of lynching and the law. It is the fact that sometimes calls it forth and at other times merely furnishes the excuse for it. It is the fact that the law is made for our people as a whole permanent to rise by treading down any of their own number. Even those who themselves are the victims of the law, and the maltreatment of their fellows will in the long run also suffer. No more shortsighted policy can be imagined than that of the law which is made to close, to prevent the education of another class. The free public school, the chance for each boy or girl to get an education, is the only basis for the foundation of our whole political situation. In every community the poorest, the lowest class who need the schools the most, would be the first to be shut out if they only received school facilities proportionately to the taxes they paid. It is one of the portions of our country as of another, that the man who is poor for the negro as for the white man. The white man, if he is wise, will desire to have the negro educated, to grow to manhood, and manhood without education. Unquestionably education such as is obtained in our public schools is the best way to go towards making a man a good citizen, but it does much. The lowest and most brutal criminals, those for instance who are common criminals, are the great majority men who have had either no education or very little; just as they are almost invariably men who are poor. The man who has no education puts money by out of his earnings, like the man who acquires education. The man who has no education is brutal, the man who has education is humane. Of course the best education for the colored man is the education for the colored man, taken as a whole, is such education as and Tuskegee; where the boys and girls, the young men and young women, are trained industrially as well as in the academic subjects of the branches. The graduates of these schools turn out well in the great majority of cases, and hardly any of them are criminals. In the schools of this country there is never taken the form of that brutal violence which incites lynch law. Every graduate of one of these schools is a citizen, and that every other colored man or woman—who leads a life so useful and honorable as to win the good will and respect of the white community—has been he or she is thereby helps the whole colored race as it can be helped in no other way, far next to the negroes themselves, who are the best help the negro as his white neighbor who lives near him, and our steady effort should be to better the relations between the two races. The majority of these schools has been to their colored pupils and to the colored people, it may well be questioned whether it has been as great to the white people among whom these colored pupils live after they graduate.

It is a recognized fact, that the individuals who, whether from cold or from evil temper, from greed for office, or in a spirit of mere base demagoguery, have been the authors of inflammatory speeches and writings which tend to arouse mobs and to bring about lynching, not only thus excite the mob, but also give it a false motive. It is called "suggestion," greatly to increase the likelihood of a repetition of the very time again, in which they are involved. When the mob is composed of the people of one race and the man lynched is of another race, the members of the mob are thus given a false either excite or justify the action taken, of course, to excite a bitter race feeling, and to cause the mob to take opposite steps to lose sight of the abominable act of the criminal himself; and in addition by the prominence they give to the race idea, they are undoubtedly tend to excite in other brutal and depraved persons thoughts of the same kind, and thus to bring about orderly punishment under the law is the only way by which criminality of this type can permanently be suppressed.

CAPITAL AND LABOR.

Severely Condemned.

In dealing with both labor and capital, with the questions affecting both corporations and trade unions, there is one matter more important to recognize than any other, and that is the infinite harm done by preachers of mere discontent. These are the men who are the cause of the trouble, who instigate against all men of wealth. They seek to turn wise and proper men into fools, and to make them believe in corporations and for doing away with the abuses connected with wealth. Into a campaign of hysterical excitement they lead the masses, and they endeavor to kindle the brutal passions of mankind. The sinister imaginations of these visionaries are so eager to undertake such a campaign of destruction sometimes seek to associate themselves with those working for the same end, but by the use of immoral methods, and sometimes marquerade as such reformers. In reality they are the cause of the trouble, because they profess to advocate, just as the purveyors of sensational slander in the newspaper and magazine, and the betrayers of all men who are engaged in an honest effort to better what is bad in our social and governmental conditions. The rich man who is attacked in the rich man as such, to carry on a campaign of slander and to inject the same line to seek to mislead the public, is a dishonest human being whose motives are hard and who have not the kind of mental training which would permit them to understand the difference in the doctrines preached all this to commit a crime against the body politic and to be liable to every punishment of the law. The American national life. Moreover, while such preaching and such agitation may give some of those who take part in it, and may result in temporary political successes of others, in the long run every such effort is destined to fail, and will provoke a violent reaction, which will itself result not merely in undoing the work of the agitator, but also in undoing the good that the honest reformer, the true upholder of popular rights, has accomplished for laboring classes. Corruption is never so ripe as in communities where the demagog and the demagogue are the only leaders. In such communities all moral bands become loosened, and hysteria and sensationalism replace the spirit of sound reason. The demagogue, who is a man and man in their revolt against the equal anarchy thus produced, will never be able to lead the people toward any leader who can restore order, and then their relief at being free from the intolerable burden of class hatred will cause them to turn against the violence that for some time has aroused to indignation against misdeeds by men who are in part responsible for the growth of the very abuses which were in part responsible for the original outbreak. The one remedy is a resolute and fearless, but sane and cool-headed advance along the path marked out by the principles of justice. There must be a stern refusal to be misled into following either that base creature who appeals and panders to the passions of the people, or that creature to arouse a set of Americans against their fellows, or that other creature, equally vicious, but of a different kind, who seeks to accumulate a vast amount of greed or to accumulate a vast amount of already huge fortune, seeks to exploit his fellow men, and is capable of regarding their welfare of soul and body. The man who debauches others in order to obtain a high office stands on an even lower plane than the man who debauches others for financial profit; and when hatred is sown the

Railroad Employees' Hours. I call your attention to the need of passing legislation to limit the number of hours of employment of railroad employees. The measure is a very moderate one and I can conceive of no objection to it. I would so far as it is in our power, it should be our aim steadily to reduce the number of hours of labor of men as a general principle. The institution of an eight-hour day, there are industries in which it is not possible that the hours of labor should be reduced just as the Government communities not far enough advanced for such a movement to be for their good, or, if in the tropics, so situated that the climate is not so well adapted to their needs and ours in this matter. On the Isthmus of Panama, for instance, the conditions are in every way such that the institution of an eight-hour day would be absurd; just as it is absurd so far as the Isthmus is concerned to have the Indians employed to write or to do whether the necessary work is done by alien black men or by alien yellow men. But the wage-earners of the high grade that arise from the merely industrial standpoint and from the civic standpoint it would be a very serious loss if it should be in the direction of securing the general observance of an eight-hour day. Until recently the eight-hour law or the eight-hour standard has been very neatly observed. Now, however, largely thru the instrumentality of the bureau of labor, it is being broken down and it is not likely we will be able to say whether or not there is need of further legislation in reference thereto; for our purpose is to have the law observed. Half holidays during summer should be established for government employees. It is also a very serious suggestion that we take away their hands on for salaried officials whose labor is mental that there should be a reasonable amount of holiday.

The congress at its last session wisely took pride in the fact that it had made the District of Columbia a marked step in advance on the path of properly caring for the children. Let me again urge that the congress provide for a thorough investigation of the conditions of child labor in the District of Columbia and in the United States. More and more our people are growing to recognize the fact that the questions which are not merely of industrial but of social importance outweigh all others; and these two questions most emphatically appears in the annals of those who have come into the far-reaching world of the home life of the nation. The horrors of the present to the employment of the young children in factories or at work where there are blot on our civilization. It is true that each state must find its own way, but a thorough investigation of the matter, with the results published broadly, would greatly assist the states in their efforts to protect science and securing unity of stable action in the matter. There is, however, no law on the subject which would be a national law, but to ensure there is no need for an investigation in reference thereto, and therefore to enact it is incredible to believe that a nation so intelligent and thoroughgoing child-labor law should be enacted for the District of Columbia and the territories.

Employers' Liability.

Among the excellent laws which the country lost at the last session was a employers' liability law. It was a marked step in advance to get the recognition of employers' liability on the part of the community, but it went far enough in spite of all pretensions exercised by employers there are innumerable accidents and even deaths involved in the making of machinery connected with the mechanic arts. This inevitable sacrifice of life may be prevented by more care, but it can be completely eliminated. It is a great social injustice to compel the employee, or rather the family of the killed or injured, to bear the whole weight of the burden of an inevitable sacrifice. In other words, society shirks its duty by laying the whole cost on the victim, whereas it should share the burden with him. It is called the legitimate risks of traded, compensation for accidents or deaths in the industry to the community. Under conditions under which no reduction is carried on, should be paid by that portion of the community for the benefit of the community. It is a social duty that is, by those who profit by the industry. If the entire labor risk is placed upon the employer he will promptly be compensated for it. It is a legitimate cost of production and assess it proportionately upon the community. It is therefore clear to me that the law should place this entire "risk of a trade" upon the employer. Neither the state nor the federal government has formed, the state laws dealing with the question of employers' liability are sufficiently thoroughgoing. The federal law is not even more complete. The employees in navy-yards, arsenals, and the like.

Investigation of Disputes.

The commission appointed by the president to investigate the anthracite coal strike, both the anthracite coal operators and miners to inquire into, consider, and pass upon the merits of the controversy in connection with the strike in the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania and the causes out of which the controversy arose, in its report, which was made public last week, the belief "that the state and federal governments should provide the means for a permanent and impartial compulsory investigation of controversies between employers and employees when the public interest is involved." The expression is deserving of the favorable consideration of the congress and the enactment of its provisions into law. A bill has already been introduced to this effect.

Records show that during the 30 years from January 1, 1851, to December 31, 1910, there were 1,000 strikes in 66 establishments, and 410,694 employees were thrown out of employment. During the same period there were 1,666 strikes in 100 establishments, throwing over 1,000,000 people out of employment. These strikes and lockouts cost the country $1,000,000,000. Employees of $307,000,000 and to employers of $165,000,000, a total of $472,000,000. The public suffered directly and indirectly $1,000,000,000. The loss of the money was, great as it was, did not measure the anguish and suffering endured by the thousands of men and women, whose pay stop when their work stop, or the disastrous effect of the strike or lockout upon the business of the country, the loss of the production of products and the inconvenience and loss to the public.

Strikes and lockouts would not have occurred had the parties to the dispute been required to appear before an impartial body representing the union and the mine to face, state reasons for their contention. In most instances the dispute would doubtless be settled by the exercise of the rights by each of the other's rights, aggravated by an unwillingness of either party to accept the decision of the impartial body as to the justice or injustice of the matters in dispute. The exercise of a judicial spirit by a disinterested body would have been found in the settlement of such as would be followed by a commission on conciliation and arbitration, which would have been a true and friendlyness and conciliation between contending parties; and the giving each side an equal opportunity to present fully their case, and the exercise of the right to prevent many disputes from developing into serious strikes or lockouts, and in addition to the fact that the commission to persuade the opposing parties to come to terms.

for combatants, neither employees nor employers should be left completely at the mercy of the stronger party to a dispute, regardless of the righteousness of the cause. The only way to secure this measure would be in the line of securing recognition of the fact that in many strikes the public has itself an interest and must not be sacrificed to a selfish interest not merely of general convenience, but the question of a just and proper public policy must also be considered in the making of this law.

It is well to advance cautiously, testing each step by the actual results; the test proposed can surely be safely taken, for the decisions of the commission would not be binding until the public has yet would give a chance for public opinion to exert its full force for the right.

Withdrawal of Coal Lands. It is not wise that the nation should alienate its remaining coal lands, but it is equally unwise to permit settlement upon all the lands which the geological survey has indicated as containing, or likely to contain, coal. The coal lands of the United States should be protected not only by legislation, which in my judgment should provide for the withdrawal of these lands from sale in certain circumstances. The ownership would then remain in the United States, which would have the power to lease them to them, but permit them to be worked by private individuals under a royalty system, the government keeping such a close supervision that no excessive price was charged consumers. It would of course be as necessary to supersede the rates charged by the companies with the rates charged by the government, the rates charged by those who mine it, and the supervision must extend to the conduct of the common carriers, so that they would not be able to raise the price at the expense of shippers. The withdrawal of these coal lands would constitute a policy analogous to that which has been followed in the case of the public lands from ordinary settlement. The coal, like the forests, should be treated as a property of the public and its disposal should be decided by Congress, which would inure to the benefit of the public as a whole.

CONTROL OF CORPORATIONS.
Recommends Some Minor Changes in Lava Recruit Emitted.
The present congress has taken long strides in the direction of securing public supervision and control by the national government over corporations engaged in interstate business and the enormous majority of corporations of any size are engaged in interstate business. The passage of the railway rate act, the passage of the pure food bill, and the provision for increasing and rendering more attractive interstate business in the packing industry, mark an important advance in the proper direction. In the short session it will perhaps be difficult to do more, but the line of advance it may be best to wait until the fall have been in operation for a number of months. It is not probable that they will reach their scope, because only operation will show with exactness their merits and their shortcomings and thus give opportunity to define what further legislation is needed. Yet in my judgment it will in the end be advisable to amend the present law by giving inspection law to provide for putting a date on the label and for charging the cost of inspection to the packers. ## A CENTURY OF ROMANOFFS

ALEXANDER II

ALEXANDER III

NICHOLAS I

NICHOLAS II
CZAR OF ALL
THE RUSSIAS

ALEXANDER I

THE MODERN CZARS

Among the modern Czars of Russia there have been two Alexanders and two Nicholases. The Nicholas now in the midst of his troubles. One hundred and one have they ruled over all the empire. The other Czar Nicholas, who was crowned for thirty long troubled years in 1825, belongs to the line of the only man who ever ruled the line of direction of an empire merely by employing the engineers to whom he assigned the task and the engineers had squabbled over the road between the two capitals, St. Petersburg and Moscow. At last, the emperor, sick of the war, ordered the road to be brought to him. He laid it on a map of Russia, where him on the council of ministers drew a straight line between the two cities. "That is the route," he said, and the road was added to an end. The line he drew, the road was to this day it remains. Many towns of commerce that the road should be several miles distant from Nicholas, as head of the church, was petitioned, in a memorandum, to declare whether or not the line of purgatory was true. The question had to be decided by the great churchmen. It was an easy one for Nicholas. The memorandum over, took the line, and "No purgatory" he wrote on the margin of the memorandum.

AND THE SUCKLING PIG. The first house he and his suite visited was a certain military writer has put it, "the empire returned to its old routine."

second house, a similar sight met their eyes. At the third, also, and so on. Finally, when the inspection was nearly over an attendant, Prince Volkonski by name, grew suspicious that everything was not as lovely as it seemed, and in one house managed slyly to cut off the pig's tail and to slip it into his pocket. At the next house, what should he behold on the table but a roast suckling pig minus a tail! "I think," said the prince to his emperor, "that we have an old friend here." "What do you mean?" asked the Czar. Up to the table stepped the prince, and, pulling the tail out of his pocket, deftly fitted it to its place. Critics agree that up to this moment Alexander I had endeavored to uplift Russia, and had succeeded wonderfully well for his time. But this evidence of petty graft was too much for him; it was the last straw. In disgust he turned the affairs of state over to Arakcheiev, and, as one historical writer has put it, "the empire returned to its old routine."

PUNISHMENT THAT FITTED THE CRIME. When Alexander II, known to history as the Liberator, came to the throne he at first busied himself constantly altering the uniforms of his troops, and this won for himself the sobriquet, "the military tailor." Concerning this part of the Liberator's career, a prominent Russian has told the following incident: "One day a student of one of the great crown colleges, in talking over with his comrades the reforms of Alexander II, declared that the emperor was nothing but a tailor, meaning to insinuate that he was too fond of altering military uniforms. "These words came to the ears of the police, who carried them to the sovereign. The impudent youth was summoned by imperial order to the palace.

His parents already saw him on the road to Siberia. And what punishment do you think was inflicted on him? The emperor ordered him to be presented with a complete uniform!" Alexander's father, the other Nicholas, on his deathbed had pleaded with his son to free the serfs as soon as he ascended the throne—and this from a Czar who had been as autocratic, and, hand and, waving it in the air, hotly exclaimed: "Here is a description of the treatment that a proper infliction on her domestic never sleep calmly till I have done to all that!" A little later twenty people were added to the men. ALEXANDER'S DEATH DUE. All the world knows that Alexander was blown to shreds while out driving; it is not understood that he brought an act of kindness. The explosion of the carriage was hurled off the Czar's carriage, wounded Cossack guards and a but otherwise did no harm. Even before the smoke away the Czar was seen in his carriage. "Are you hurt?" asked "No, thank God," was am untouched. Don't let us look after the worst. He was especially so comfort of the Cossack, at times he ordered all attention. He was on the point of his carriage when he

When paw does somethink wrong, an' knows
That maw'll call him down,
He don't come home an' brave it out
An' throw the things aroun',
But he will kind o' heave a sigh.
Fer paw is mighty slick,
An' look as though he'd like to cry,
An' act as if he's sick.

It's then he talks o' business cares
Till you kin feel the gloom,
As aunty says, come down the stairs
An' settle in the room,
Till maw begins to feel a throb
O' pity fer him, so,
Instead of calling of him down
She cheers him up, by jolt

CANNOT UNDERSTAND IT.
When I was ten and you were 8,
Two years between us stood;
We used to meet by Daddy's gate—
A stolen kiss was good.

When I was 20—quite a boy,
You still were my heart's queen,
But grown of kissing somewhat coy,
You see—you're quite 16!

When I was 30, bronzed and tall,
With sweethearts, too, in plenty,
I met you at the Wilson's ball—
You told me, you were 20.

I'm 40 now, a little more—
O, Time, you ruthless bandit!
But you—you're only 24—
I cannot understand it!

ARABELLA'S DESIRE.
"I'm rare," said Arabella,
"It would be very nice,
If lions, wolves and tigers
Would eat nothing else but mice.

"Then lambs and deer and camels
Could live together free,
With no one to annoy them—
I'm sure that would please me.

"Because, to be quite truthful,
At night I sometimes dread,
That some big wolf or lion Might bite off all my head.

"And it would be nicer,
And better for my mind,
If lions, wolves and tigers
To mice were more inclined."
